

Andrew Roman | May 2, 2021 at 9:22 pm | Reply

The single factor fallacy is an attractive oversimplification because it leads to a binary policy choice, infused with a moral choice between good and evil. Green = good, save our planet; carbon pollution = evil, destroy our planet. No more thinking or information is required.

This apocalyptic cult is an updated religion in a secular age. The apocalyptic fear is at least as old as the biblical story of Noah's ark: all the evildoer humans were drowned in the great flood, except the virtuous Noah.

It is an embarrassment to see a sophisticated government like that of the US in 2021 do this to its citizens. One can only hope that as the societal costs of these misguided policies begin to cause the inevitable impoverishment the voting public begins to understand that the apocalyptic climate theology is a false religion, and stops following it.